

Psychology

Do you want to understand personality and healthy minds?

Do you want to study psychology or social sciences at uni?

Students study how thoughts, feelings, behaviours factors will underline and influence us. Within this course students will explore multiple topics such as social cognition, altered states of awareness. Students will develop their inquiry skills though experiments over the duration of this course.

This subject sits between the life sciences and the humanities, with two consequences. First, psychology can, as a discipline, emphasise connections to either the sciences or the humanities. Second, it draws teachers and students whose backgrounds and interests lie both in the humanities and in the sciences.

SACE Credits

20 Credits

Assessment

Investigation Folio

Skills and Application Tasks

External Exam

Subject Length

Full year

Prerequisites

N/A

Additional Information

Psychology is heavy in content and literacy rich. The assessments include two formal scientific reports and numerous topic tests.

SACE Link

<https://www.sace.sa.edu.au/studying/subjects/psychology>